Royal Albert Hall performance

Wow! What an exciting term this has been. After performing at Snape Maltings and at the Birmingham Symphony Hall in the summer, our Key Stage 2 children were invited to perform at the Music for Youth Festival at the Royal Albert Hall last month.

Before they boarded the coach, Mrs McGrath and two pupils, Isabel and Freddie, were interviewed by BBC Radio Suffolk about the day ahead. They shared their excitement and explained what they would be performing that evening.

After rehearsals in the morning at the Royal Albert Hall, the children went to the Science Museum at lunchtime before returning to practise in the afternoon.

In the evening when their big moment arrived, they performed their version of 'The Firebird' by Stravinsky and the performance was absolutely fantastic and brilliant to watch.

It was an incredibly long day with the coach arriving back at school in Stoke by Nayland at 11.40pm, but although tired, pupils were still excited and buzzing from the experience, with one child saying to their parent, "That....was....amazing!"

There are more comments from very proud parents and grandparents on our school Facebook page. It really was an amazing opportunity for the children and one they will never forget.
